POOLEY DALE

We thank you for your letter dated 12th September.

We express surprise that this letter has been written at all since it clearly demonstrates the inappropriateness of the way that your client is going about things. If your client wishes to discuss the level of his contact with the children then he should do so with our client in an appropriate way. There is rarely any merit and/or good reason for a parent to conduct conversations concerning child contact with the children alone. With respect, the entirety of your letter reads as an attempt on the part of your client to justify something that never should have taken place. Please impress upon your client that there should be no repetition.

In so far as your client is making a request that he see the children from 4pm until 8pm on the Friday when he is not having overnight staying contact we will take instructions. However, please do not be surprised if the answer given is that our client would expect to have a complete weekend with the children once a fortnight with which, of course, your client's request would interfere.

For the record it is unsurprising that mid-week contact during school term time would be likely to get in the way of things like homework and that is why extensive mid-week contact during term time never works.

On a separate note it is noted that your client has not filed his Acknowledgement of Service of the Divorce Petition. Please can you arrange for this to be done without any delay otherwise the costs of the Divorce will be increased by our client being forced to arrange for personal service on your client.
